Communication with 123Scan Using a USB Cable

Scan the barcode below to enable communication between your scanner and the 123Scan configuration utility over USB. Before scanning, make sure your USB cable is properly connected between your scanner and computer. After scanning the barcode, communication should be established with your scanner within 60 seconds.

   The act of connecting a scanner to the PC via 123Scan may have changed the host setting from that which is desired. To ensure proper communication between your scanner and host when generating a configuration file, make sure to specify your desired communication mode in step 2 (Cable Connection) of the configuration wizard process.
